

Acorns News

Welcome back Acorns! We are well and truly in autumn now and about to start our new topic, which is all about 'Night and Day' [and the different celebrations we encounter at this time of year. Alongside this, we are looking forward to hearing about your ever growing interests and home-life experiences.

Please remember to send a named water bottle with your child each day and a spare change of clothes in case of accidents.

Our Topic

Our topic this term covers two themes, 'Night and Day and Celebrations'. We will continue to celebrate birthdays and also explore what happens during Diwali, Bonfire Night and Christmas. The first story we will be reading is 'Room on the Broom', followed by 'Owl Babies'. We will continue to talk about seasonal changes and as the nights start to draw in, we will learn about nocturnal animals. Our maths and literacy activities will link to our topic but will also follow children's interests and stages of development.

How you can support at home..

- Talk about seasonal changes
- Choose three activities from the 'Homework Grid'
- Look at your child's observations on Tapestry and talk to them about what they are learning
- Encourage your child to look for numbers at home and when you are out and about
- Share stories, rhymes and non-fiction books to encourage an early love of books and the spoken word

If you have any questions or concerns, please pop in and see us.
